The Base Ball Situation Still Clouded by Doubt.

OHIO LEAGUE LOOKS LIKE A GO

But the Wheeling End is still in a state of uncertainty—Moreland is the manager in view by Buckenberger. This second fall business won't do—A scheme for local control of the franchise—Last night's bowling games.

From the special telegram printed in the Intelligencer yesterday morning it would appear that the proposed Ohio base ball league has a fairly bright prospect of success. With six cities settled, it should be an easy matter to get the other pair. But though the league looks to be a go, the situation here in Wheeling is still rather cloudy.

To begin with, there is uncertainty as to several matters. First, the park question is in as bad shape as it was last fall; second, the question of ownership of the club is not determined; third, the question whether or not Wheeling cares to play second fiddle to the New Jersey village of Trenton, and there are others.

As to the park it can be stated authoritatively that only two sites will be under consideration—the old park and the State Fair grounds; there are no others available. As to the first it is true that on account of differences last year Mr. Schmuckelbach will refuse to lease his ground to Messrs. Buckenberger and Barrows. Then, as to the State Fair grounds it is learned that the management will require security for the entire season's term before they will make the necessary changes in the way of fences, diamond, etc. As the life of any minor league is somewhat uncertain it is doubtful whether the owners of the ball club could give this security.

Regarding the second question—ownership of the club—the uncertainty that has been spoken of is very dense. From the plans of Buckenberger it would seem that Barrows is not to come to Wheeling this year. Buckenberger, of course, could not come, as he is owner and manager of the Trenton club of the Atlantic association. Who then is to run the club? There's where Colonel Echo gets in his work.

The third question—Does Wheeling care to play second fiddle to Trenton? Most emphatically no. If Messrs. Buckenberger and Barrows think they will meet with a warm reception here in the face of their recent actions they will be dispelled in short order. At the close of last season there were a number of players in the event of a club being organized on these lines and it is known that the Wheeling Railway Company stands ready to substantially encourage the scheme. With these facts presented there should be an early start toward forming a club. The Ohio league will meet in two weeks; local representatives should be present. It is known that Messrs. Schmuckelbach and Wright should take the initiative.

As to a players' manager, there is plenty of material. In the dispatch printed in this paper yesterday morning, reference was made to a manager whom Buckenberger said would come to Wheeling. It is learned that this man is George L. Moreland, of Pittsburg, who was so successful last year in getting together a winning team for Steubenville, which, however, the people up there did not appreciate. Moreland or another good man can easily be secured to manage the team.

But there is one important feature—Don't wait until the season is almost at hand.

Wheeling and the surrounding communities turn out a creditable bunch of ball players in the various base ball leagues every spring. Wheeling, on a small scale, is like Cincinnati and Philadelphia, cities that have the reputation of turning out more ball players than any other city. Here is a practically complete list of the local players and the clubs and leagues where they go:

Jack Glascock—Columbus, Western league.
Sammy Nichols—Kansas City, Western league.
Perk Kennedy—Brooklyn, National league.
Eddy George—St. Paul, Western league.
Mike Hoberge—Hazelton, Pennsylvania league.
George Westlake—Carbondale, Pennsylvania league.
Tully Kane—Dallas, Texas league.
Harry Pritchard—Dallas, Texas league.
Dick Padden—Pittsburgh, National league.
Ducky Minnehan—Dallas, Texas league.
Jesse Burkett—Cleveland, National league.

It's pretty difficult to tell where Jack Glascock will play next season. The St. Paul Pioneer Press insists that Comiskey has secured his signature to a contract; he has been billed as the captain of this year's Quincy team, and Tom Loftus has his autograph to a piece of paper which calls for his presence in Columbus during the playing season of '96, says the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The Hunter or Stevens Oil Company Injunction Continued.
Yesterday in Judge Paul's court, that injunction restraining the board of directors of the Hunter—or as it is known, the Stevens—Oil Company from issuing fifteen additional shares of stock, was partly affirmed and continued until Tuesday. In the meantime the combine is in possession of the well, which is located in the Waverly field. The Intelligencer exclusively gave the details of the controversy between the two factions among the stockholders on Wednesday morning. The outcome will be awaited with interest. Considerable bitterness has already been shown.

Over in Ohio.
The Adena well, being drilled by the Flushing Oil Company, reached the Berea sand at midnight Wednesday, at a depth of 1,350 feet. At last accounts they were twenty-five feet in the Berea with a small showing of oil and considerable salt water, but no gas. The company decided to go on to the Mackburg sand, which is about 100 feet below the Berea.

The Little York well, directly north of the Adena, found the same conditions in the Berea and went on to the Mackburg, where they got a twenty-five-barrel well. The Adena well is five miles due north of the Fairpoint location, and by drawing a 45 degree line makes the Fairpoint location look more favorable. Post & Wallace are drilling the Adena well, and will remove their machinery as soon as done at Adena to Fairpoint. They have the contract for drilling that well.

That Ruckman Well.
The well on the Ruckman farm, at Eureka, is keeping the talent guessing, says "D. S. W." The well has not flowed since Sunday, and it is the general impression that it is a failure. Interested parties claim that it has not been drilled deep enough to get the pay in which the Hammet farm well got its oil. If that is true there is nothing yet to condemn the well or prevent it from being as good as the Hammet. It is probable that the first lot of oil was found in a stray above the regular Berea formation, and it will show up all right when drilled deeper. It would be well to withhold judgment in passing on probable results until it has been drilled through the sand.

Waverly Oil Notes.
Hockstetter & Tennant have made the locations for Nos. 13 and 14 on the R. P. Ingram farm. This farm has proven one of the best producing tracts in the field.
Snider & Co. have completed their No. 6, on the James P. Sharp farm, and have a good producer.
The Ruckman Oil Company's No. 1, on the Corbett estate, has been put to pumping and will make a 25-barrel producer. The location for No. 2, on the same tract, has been made.
The Calf Creek Oil Company's No. 2, on the Jones tract, is good for 75 barrels a day.
The Charlotte Oil Company has commenced to spud on their lease in advance of development and the completion of the well will be closely watched.
The Dyke well has been abandoned on account of a cave. A new location has been made and another hole will be started.

A rig is now being erected on the Corbett tract, located a half mile above the mouth of Bull creek. This is the shot of an important test, and will claim some attention.
The Johnson well, it is claimed, is not a duster, as reported. It will be drilled several hundred feet deeper.

The Florence and Snider oil companies are making additional locations and building rigs on their leases near Cooperstown.

Slatersville Oil Notes.
The Kyle well on Indian creek, Tyler county, has not been drilled any deeper and the production remains at about 10 barrels an hour.

In Monroe county, between the Deist and Freiden pools, McCoy & Co. have drilled in their No. 3, Weigle, and have a 100-barrel producer.

There appears to be no hope of raising the Congo, as she is said to be filled with sand and the water is nearly covering her bows. The current in the river at the point at which she sunk is very strong. A diver will be sent to the scene, who will decide whether the boat can be raised or not. The Memphis line is now in a bad way for boats. The line was already one steamer short before the Congo disaster.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disastrous results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.
